

Pilar Snowden, PhD
Medical Science Liaison, Vaccines

Pilar Snowden has been with GSK since 2015. She earned her PhD from Duke University where her studies focused on humoral immunity and adjuvant science. Prior to joining GSK, Pilar was a medical science liaison with Novartis Vaccines where she served as the subject matter expert for its meningococcal portfolio. She currently acts as the research point of contact for the Vaccines MSL team.